

ETHERTON GALLERY

New Exhibition

KATE BREakey
TRANSIENCE

APRIL 5 - MAY 28

Queen Anne's Lace, n.d., edition of 20, archival pigment print, hand colored with pencil and pastel, 24 x 26 in.

Ethereon Gallery is pleased to announce our new spring exhibition, Kate Breakey: Transience, which highlights photographs and multi-media images by Kate Breakey, who has dedicated her artistic career to preserving wildness in the natural world. The exhibition opens April 5, 2022 with an artist reception Saturday, April 9, 2022 from 7:00 to 10:00 pm. Kate Breakey: Transience will be on view at Etherton Gallery through May 28, 2022.

Preview The Exhibition

Speaking recently about her 2022 retrospective at the Grace Museum in Abilene, Texas, Breakey said, "My own collection of images serves as a record – a random, disjointed, visual diary of the things I've seen and loved – a way to possess and preserve what is wild and ineffable, and above all transient, labeled and arranged under glass – my own kind of natural history museum, evidence of my life's journey."

In the Pop Up Gallery: Paul Hart

Etherton Gallery is pleased to present one of their newly represented photographers, Paul Hart, in the Pop Up Gallery in conjunction with Kate Breakey: Transience. Paul Hart: The Fens, is an installation of landscape photographs by British photographer Paul Hart. The Fens, a region of reclaimed marshland in eastern England, is one of the richest arable areas in the United Kingdom. For over ten years Hart has explored this wide-open landscape of straight lines and flat horizons, and nature's vulnerability within this unsheltered, unprotected environment. His narrative examines the complex interrelation between humanity and nature and raises important questions about human-altered topography and our occupation and stewardship of this land.

All images © Paul Hart

Lynn Way, 2013, selenium toned gelatin silver print, 16 x 20 in.

Anmer, 2009, selenium toned gelatin silver print, 24 x 20 in.

Holland Road, 2019, selenium toned gelatin silver print, 16 x 20 in.

For more information contact Daphne Srinivasan at Etherton Gallery, (520) 624-7370 or info@ethertongallery.com.

Facebook

Twitter

Instagram

Etherton Gallery

340 S Convent Ave, Tucson, AZ 85701 | p: 520.624.7370 | ethertongallery.com

Member AIPAD

Hours

Tuesday - Saturday, 11:00am - 5:00pm